[From the National Intelligencer.] Minor's Ledge Lighthouse.

This truly great national work is fat drawing towards completion. The mason-work is all finished, the last atone having been set in its place on the 29th day of last mouth with safety, although the waveal were rolling and pitching the veasel at the time the stone was sent to its place seat. time the stone was sent to its place, making it a very dangerous undertaking, but still interesting snough for those engaged in it. The workmen are now busy on the interior of the lighthouse and in putting up the lantern, in order to have all ready for lighting at an early day. When all is fi sided as designed the "Minot's Ledge Laghthouse" will be one of the grandest achievements in the world; west all not except the far-famed "Eddystone," in the English Channel.

The Minot lighthouse is built on a dangarous sucken rock, which bears the name of the "Outer Minet," and at most states of the tide is covered; at high water it is covered to the depths of from ten to four teen feet, making it altogether a very un comfortable and difficult place to erec such a bu iding upon as the one we are about to describe. This dangerous rock lies in the tack of outward and inward lies in the teck or outward and bound vessels, and is shout twenty-two Boston, in Massmiles couth-east from Boston, in Mass-achusetts Bay, and about three miles from Conassett, where all the works are carried on in cornection with building of the lighthouse. The operations were commenced in the summer of 1885, and have been carin the summer of 1900, and neve men cer-ried on steadily ever since. Sabbaths as well as the ordinary working days of the work, so anxious were those in charge to have this work of new city and mercy completed with as much dispatch as possible. We may moution here that the old iron lighthouse previously erecte on this rock had been carried away in the fearful storm in he month of April, 1851 and the two keepers were lost with it. The first blow struck on the rock towards the erection of the lighthouse was on a Sabbath morning, July 1st, 1855. And it is a remarkable coincidence that the first stone laid on the coinci-ence that the first stone laid on the Eddystone rock towards the erection of the lighthouse built therein was hid out the Sabbuth morning June 12th, 1757; the first stone being faid on Minot's Ledge in July 9th, 1857. The Perry Statue-Mock Naval Bate

The inauguration of a statue of Commo dore Perry, at Cleveland, will doubtless he one of the most imposing ceremonies, eye witnessed at the West. Among the norelties announced is a naval muck battle. the will be a novelty never witnessed in the West, and will be one of the most attract-West, and will be one of the most attractive features of the day. Application has been made to Secretary Toncey for permission for the government versals on the Lakes to attend and take part in the barries and the part in the barries. Laken to attend and take part in the bat-tle, and the request will doubtless be grant-ed. The affair will be a representation of the battle of Lake Erie, and will take place at a point in full view from the banks.
